

Rachel Manley was born in Cornwall, England, daughter of an English mother and Jamaican father, the future Prime Minister, Michael Manley. At the age of two, Manley was sent to Jamaica to live with her grandparents – Jamaica's first Prime Minister Norman Manley and Edna his wife, who was a sculptor and painter. Rachel was awarded the Governor General's Literary Award for Non-Fiction for her memoir of her childhood in Jamaica. Manley is the mother of two children. She lives in Toronto.

Selected Publications

Horses in Her Hair (2008)

Slipstream: A Daughter Remembers (2000)

Drumblair: Memories of a Jamaican Childhood (1996)

A Light Left On (1992)

Edna Manley: The Diaries (1989)

Poems 2 (1978)

Prisms (1972)

Updated 02-05-08